Order On Wages Is Prepared

Johnston Ready To Issue it on His Own Due Lack of Accord

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—Economic boss Eric Johnston today prepared to issue a blanket wage control order on his own, for lack of union labor agreement to freeze action by the Wage Stabilization board.

The announcement, coupled with a price freeze and rollback, could come late today but mechanical problems are very likely to delay it until Saturday.

Informed officials said Johnston has virtually abandoned hope that the nine-man wage board of Johnston's economic stabilization agency—made up of three members each representing labor, management and the public—can get unanimous agreement.

The vote now stands 6 to 3, with the public and industry members ready to act and labor holding off. Cyrus S. Craig, wage board chairman, so far has declined to issue the order without unanimous agreement.

Johnston conferred with Ching this morning. Neither official gave reporters any clue to the conversation.

But from other quarters it was learned that the labor members of the board seemed adamant, apparently on instructions from their organizations.

It was indicated that the unionists felt it would be unwise strategy, from the standpoint of long range policy, to put the seal of approval of AFL, CIO and other organized labor on a freeze. They preferred to await the development of a flexible formula which would permit lagging wages to come up to an agreed standard.

Rollback Considered
On the price side, officials said they now are considering a rollback to the highest levels of the period December 15 to January 15, but were waiting until the last possible moment to insert a freeze date. Earlier, a Jan. 2 freeze had been under study.

That's the current status of the off-again-on-again effort to check the rising cost of living. Officials weren't kidding themselves: Everything was subject to change on short—very short—notice.

The government's economic chiefs, from Johnston up to defense mobilizer Charles E. Wilson, and from Wilson up to President Truman, were apparently determined that prices and wages must be brought under immediate controls and simultaneously if possible.

The office of price stabilization (OPS), headed by Michael V. DiSalle, was ready with its price freeze—or practically ready. The impact is expected to fall upon all goods except new automobiles and cowhides, and except those things that cannot legally be controlled under the defense production act, like pork and most other farm products.

Cars And Hides Frozen
Prices of automobiles and cowhides have already been frozen by separate orders.

The hides order came only yesterday. Effective Jan. 29, it forces hide producers to return to the highest levels of last November. OPS officials said the order should prevent further boosts in retail shoe prices.

The wage control picture was less clear.

Chairman Ching, a former industry leader and a famous labor-management mediator, was wrestling with one of the toughest mediation problems of his entire 74 years.

He wants wage controls to be

Increase in Hard Coal Fields

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—Hard coal operators today agreed to give anthracite miners the same $1.60-a-day wage increase granted a week ago by the soft coal industry.

The agreement, affecting about 80,000 hard coal miners in eastern Pennsylvania, was reached in negotiations between United Mine Workers' chief John L. Lewis and representatives of the anthracite industry.

Ralph A. Taggart, chairman of the operators negotiating committee, said price increases would be necessary but would not estimate how much.

Despite efforts to gain assurances from government price officials that such a hike would be approved, Taggart said the operators had no comment from the government that it would be allowed after the impending general price-wage freeze.

The wage boost for the anthracite miners is effective Feb. 1, the same date set for the increase in the pay of the 400,000 soft coal miners. It will raise the average wage of the hard coal miners to about $13.60 for a seven-hour day.

Compromise Peace Plan Is Proposed

Canada And Israel Present It to the UN

By A. I. Goldberg

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 26.—(P)—Canada and Israel offered compromise Korean peace plans to the United Nations political committee today.

Both agreed that Red China should be named an aggressor in Korea. Canada said also it would support the U. S. resolution calling for the U. N. to brand Communist China for its aggression and to study penalties but to continue peace efforts.

Israel's delegate, Abba Eban, strongly urged that the question of penalties should be ducked now, pending further attempts for a peaceful settlement. Both Israel and Canada opposed a 12-nation Arab-Asian proposal.

Both plans were offered as suggestions; no formal resolutions were tendered.

The committee recessed at 2:15 p. m. EST until 10:45 a. m. EST tomorrow for its third straight Saturday session on the Chinese Communist problem. There was no hint when a vote would come but some Americans indicated they did not expect a decision until next week.

The Canadian plan differed from the Arab-Asian resolution in specifying that a cease-fire must precede any time limit on negotiations. It also made plain that withdrawal of all non-Korean armed forces from Korea should include all Chinese.

Chinese Reliance On Manpower

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—(P)—Bombing Manchuria might precipitate World War III but probably would not defeat the Chinese Reds in Korea, AP Columnist Hal Boyle said today.

Returning to the United States after six months of frontline reporting, Boyle explained that the Chinese invaders relied almost exclusively on manpower, and that air attack had proved insufficient against men in the broken terrain of Korea.

Even artillery cannot mow down the enemy as effectively as in more open country, he added.

Bases mean less to the Chinese than to an occidental army, and men with rifles—or with backpacks of supplies—hide successfully under every bush and in every ravine, Boyle said.

The current fading back of the Chinese armies in South Korea may very possibly be explained on political grounds, Boyle commented.

At any rate, he said, that is the opinion of most American soldiers. They feel that military phases of the war are about over; that the Chinese still can push the United Nations army out of Korea if they are willing to pay the price in blood; but that the Chinese are angling for a victory by some cheaper means, the correspondent declared.

Boyle, who won the Pulitzer prize for his reporting in Europe during World War II, added that men and officers of the United Nations forces were pretty generally agreed that against a determined Chinese drive, they could stay in Korea only with large reinforcements which are not in prospect.

Meanwhile, he concluded, the average American soldier, with good morale but no great enthusiasm, is going ahead with the fight while awaiting orders.

Trapped Under A Snowslide

RENO, Jan. 26.—(P)—John McKinnon, 28, was buried alive under a snowslide for more than two hours yesterday.

Five workers who happened to miss McKinnon uncovered him, "practically frozen," just as they were ready to quit the search. Their shovels struck the snowcat tractor in which he was trapped under tons of snow.

They hauled the Sacramento, Calif., telephone lineman 12 miles by toboggan to the nearest highway.

McKinnon's condition was reported good today at Washoe General hospital here.

France in a Move to Fight Communism

For One Army and One Command to Oppose Reds

By Carter L. Davidson

PARIS, Jan. 26.—(P)—France made an historic move today to muster the soldiers of Europe, who have spilled each other's blood for centuries, into one army, under one command, arrayed against one enemy—Communism.

They have caused to the French and to put on the same boots, helmets and insignia as their European neighbors. A West German government source in Bonn said the Germans were certain to accept the invitation.

Others invited to the 11-nation confab were Britain, Norway, Iceland, Denmark, Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland, Italy and Portugal.

Canada and the United States have been asked to send observers.

Single Defense Minister

The French plan:

1. There would be a single European defense minister, a civilian of international status, to handle the recruitment, training

Her dramatic proposal went out today in the form of invitations to 10 governments to meet here to talk it over Feb. 6. It is the latest effort in Europe to end the petty rivalries and centuries-old distrusts which have kept the western world from getting ready to fend off a possible attack from the east.

The first invitation—and the first reported acceptance—was that to the federal republic of West Germany. Germans, historic enemies of France, who have invaded this nation three times in three generations, are quoted as being anxious to heal the wounds and equipping of the single European army.

2. There would be a single general staff of officers to command it.

3. Nations with overseas territories, such as the French in Indochina and North Africa, the Belgians in Central Africa, the British in Malaya and elsewhere, would retain their individual overseas forces for police or military duty there.

4. Internal security police will be outside the European army command.

For 'Socialism' As a Top Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—The Republicans nominated "state socialism" for a top issue today in taking the first steps toward the 1952 presidential battle.

Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) won sustained applause when he told the Republican National committee:

"It is our responsibility to see that President Truman is not permitted to use this grave national emergency to open the back door of state socialism."

Brown spoke at a one-day meeting of the national committee at which GOP Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson was named to head a committee to pick the 1952 presidential convention site and arrange for housing the delegates.

Several committee members said they expect difficulty in finding a suitable location because of the defense emergency.

Today's meeting included a switch in speakers on the farm issue. Committee officials said Danna Bennett, executive secretary of the foundation for agriculture, had been substituted for Allan B. Kline, head of the Farm Bureau federation.

There were reports that Kline, while he opposes the Truman farm plan, was avoiding a political appearance. However, Kline said in Chicago that he did not know he was sought as a speaker until it was too late for him to do anything about it.

Rep. Brown, in his speech, assailed President Truman's $71,500,000,000 budget, contending that the President had included in it "every socialistic proposal that has been rejected by the Congress and repudiated by the people."

Belief That Acheson May Be on Way Out

Taft So Indicates In An Address at Chicago Today

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(P)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) indicated today he believes Secretary of State Acheson may be on his way out.

Speaking to the Executives club of Chicago, Taft said:

"There seems to be some hope that we may at long last achieve the purpose of acquiring a new secretary of state."

The Ohioan made this statement in declaring that the foreign policy debate in Congress has brought about a "tremendous change" in administration foreign and military policy.

Taft said other results of the debate are:

1. "We have established the principle that constructive criticism is no longer treason. x x x Heretofore, anyone who even questioned the wisdom of the administration's foreign policy was denounced as one giving aid and comfort to the enemy x x x."

2. "We have obtained at least qualified admission that Congress has the right to speak on a question as important as the commitment of an American army to the continent of Europe x x x."

3. "The joint chiefs of staff, and the administration have apparently accepted the theory that there should be a long range limit placed on the total of our armed forces, and that that limit should be within the reach of our power to support it over a period of years without serious damage to our economy."

4. "The general policy of appeasing the Chinese Communists has apparently been reversed, although I never feel completely confident of our State department."

Holds Conference

Shortly after arriving in Chicago for a busy day of speech-making, Taft said at a news conference that he favors pulling American forces out of Korea if this country can't get U. N. backing.

He said:

"We're there (in Korea) as a result of U. N. action, and if the U. N. doesn't back us up, if I think we should pull out."

"If we withdraw, we should take all limitations of Chiang Kai-shek and let him blockade the coast, try to prevent the Communists from moving into Indo-China and Burma, and do anything he can."

Taft said it would be a "dangerous thing" for the United States to declare war on Communist China while we have troops in Korea. Our position there might become "untenable," he said.

Outlines Rail Efficiency

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 26.—(P)—James K. Knudson, commissioner of the Defense Transport Administration, has outlined a broad program to place U. S. railroads on a high efficiency footing to meet the national emergency.

Knudson addressed a gathering of the nation's top industrialists and railroad presidents at the annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Traffic club last night.

He called for a "code of transportation," chief points of which were:

1. Immediate reappraisal of the problem of car ownership. Ownership should be based on sound judgment to supply adequate numbers of cars for the traffic at hand.

2. More thorough supervision by the railroads of the use of cars.

3. A speedup of car repairs. The average percentage of bad cars is higher than it should be.

4. More alertness in placing embargoes against consignees who fail to release cars promptly.

5. Greater cooperation among railroads and other forms of transportation to effect a better balance of traffic.

6. Prompt loading and unloading and quick and thorough cleaning of cars.

7. Ordering of cars only when needed for immediate use.

Hal Boyle Wrote Wife to Get Ready For His Return to U.S.

(Editor's Note: Don Whitehead, one of the AP's war-covering "Gold Dust Twins," wrote the following last month for Hal Boyle's departure from Korea. But Hal's departure was delayed. He lingered to write more columns after Whitehead returned to the United States. Boyle arrives in San Francisco today after nearly seven months of Korean frontline reporting. Here is the original Whitehead letter to Mrs. Boyle, as valid now as it was then.)

Revolt on the Soaring Prices

Business Men Against the Rise in Raw Materials

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(P)—A revolt appears brewing among business men against the soaring prices of the raw materials they must buy. First signs appearing today are:

1. Carpet mills are staging a sit-down strike in the wool market. They say they don't buy any more wool, now priced at $2.35 a pound but which cost them only 65 cents a pound a year ago.

2. Shoe manufacturers' protests at skyrocketing hide prices led the economic stabilization agency to order a roll-back to November quotations on the cost of the raw materials from which comes your shoes.

But don't jump to the happy conclusion that the revolt means you'll be able to buy carpets or shoes any cheaper at the store.

The revolt is aimed at halting future advances, which otherwise seem inevitable. In itself the revolt can't turn back the price of finished goods made from raw materials, most of which are now selling at record highs.

Some of the leading carpet mills say that they won't buy any more wool at present prices. Alexander Smith and Sons Carpet Co., Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Co. and James Lees and Sons Co. withdrew from the market yesterday. Others indicated they might follow.

Carpet wools are imported from Argentina, New Zealand, Syria, India and Uruguay. Prices have jumped spectacularly over the past year. The carpet companies have increased their rug prices many times, trying to keep up with the costs of raw wool. But today the carpet makers say enough is enough.

Reluctant to Pay

"Our present prices are based on wool we bought at around $1.40 a pound," says James D. Wise, president of Bigelow-Sanford. "This wool now costs $3.15. On the pure merits of the situation we will not pay it."

An Alexander Smith spokesman says a typical world-wide

Find Gems in Body Of a Prisoner

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(P)—Leiser Weitman, 31, was questioned today about $320,000 worth of diamonds which federal authorities say they found hidden in his body.

They said 800 carats, in three packets, were discovered in the Brooklyn man's body after he showed signs of physical discomfort in the federal house of detention.

Federal men said they wished to determine if Weitman had used a hitherto unknown drug to enable him to retain the gems in his body for five days.

He was arrested on a smuggling charge Sunday after he arrived at New York International airport on a plane from Brussels.

Customs inspectors, who became suspicious of the size of Weitman's heels, reported finding $280,000 worth of pure white, uncut diamonds in his shoes at that time.

The additional $320,000 worth were not found until yesterday.

Identify Four In Shooting

Hold Hillbilly Musicians in a Dallas Affray

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 26.—(P)—A critically wounded rookie policeman from his hospital bed today weakly pointed out four California hill billy musicians as the men who shot him down last Monday.

The youths were arrested in Arkansas Wednesday and brought here early today. They were immediately taken to the hospital where Johnnie Sides, 21-year-old patrolman, lay in a serious condition from a bullet wound in the body.

Obviously shaken at the sight of the quartet, Sides said faintly: "That's them."

Then the wounded patrolman pointed at Marvin Johnson, one of the four, and said: "That's the one who shot me."

Sides and another patrolman, Harold L. Dawson, were wounded when they stopped four men for a traffic violation.

Dawson also identified the men as the four involved in the Dallas shooting. Dawson identified Robert Johnson, 33, uncle of Marvin Johnson, as the man who shot him in the arm.

Both officers said J. W. Johnson, 21, brother of Marvin, and Maxfield Bill Pomeroy, 17, were in the car.

The men said they were from Lamont, Calif.

The four arrived in Dallas at 6 a. m. Friday, under heavy guard and in shackles.

They were arrested shortly after noon Wednesday at Hardy by Sheriff Guthrie Godwin and city marshal L. C. Clouse.

The arrests came about after two of the men were subjected to routine questioning by the Arkansas officers. A struggle over a pistol ensued and Sheriff Godwin decided the issue when he slammed a rock to the head of Robert Johnson.

Detective Capt. Will Fritz who had headed the search met his four officers and the prisoners in the outskirts of Dallas and accompanied them to Parkland hospital.

With the approval of doctors, Fritz marched the four shackled men into Sides' room.

The scene was repeated in Dawson's room. Dawson was shot in the left arm and less seriously wounded.

NOBELSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 26.—(P)—Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Snow and their four young children, returning home from church services, were killed last night in an automobile-train crash. The children ranged in age from 7 to 15.

The Snow family's car and a Monon railroad streamliner collided at a street crossing near Sheridan, about 30 miles north of Indianapolis.

Students May Stay in School

Opportunity to be Afforded as to the Type of Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—College students tapped for the draft received new assurance today that they can stay in school until the end of the term and still enlist in the service of their choice.

The program is intended to halt a rush by students to drop out of school to enlist in the Air Force or Navy. Ordinarily students receiving draft notice must go into the Army even though their actual induction might be deferred until the end of the school year.

The Defense Department first announced the new plan last week but found it conflicted with existing regulations. There also was considerable confusion among students and draft board officials over how the plan would operate.

To eliminate the conflicts and clear up the confusion, the Defense Department and selective service got together yesterday to make additional changes in draft rules to legalize the program:

(1) Secretary of Defense Marshall wiped out, as far as college students are concerned, a two-year-old agreement among the armed services which provided that no service would accept a voluntary enlistment after a man had been notified to report for a pre-induction physical examination.

(2) Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey announced he will re-open in the last month of the college year the classification of all students who had been ordered to report for induction during the year but whose induction was postponed under a provision of the draft law allowing deferment of college students. This will open the way for a student, in the final month of the term, to pick his service as a volunteer.

The department's new announcement stressed that "each service would accept enlistments only to the extent that places were open for those who desired to enlist."

Cut For Deferments

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—The Defense Department today cut in half an earlier estimate that 150,000 4-F's now deferred from the draft could be put into service.

The new estimate was given to the House Armed Services committee by Assistant Defense Secretary Anna Rosenberg. She said it reflects the views of Maj. Gen.

Turley Has a Small Loan Plan

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26.—(P)—Former Rep. C. P. Turley has a new solution for Missouri's small loan problem.

As majority floor leader last session, Turley helped beat a 27 per cent interest bill. He called that an unconscionable rate and still thinks so.

In letters to the 1952 legislators from his hometown of Van Buren, Turley has proposed a basic 8 per cent interest rate. Anything over that, he said, is "extortionate and contrary to sound public policy."

But he conceded lenders need to charge something to pay the cost of handling small installment loans. So he suggested they be allowed to charge 50 cents a month for each installment payment, with no more than one such charge a month.

So far this session, no interest legislation has been introduced. But reports indicate small loan companies will support a 26 per cent rate.

New bills introduced yesterday before the House quote work for the week included measures to: Levy a fee of 1½ to 3 cents for each mile a truck travels in Missouri, depending on its loaded weight.

Let cities and towns set up safety inspections of automobiles at 50 cents a checkup.

Boost the speed limit for trucks from 40 to 50 miles an hour.

Feeling Out of Strength of the Communists on The Front There

By the Associated Press

Tank-led United Nations patrols pushed north today, sweeping through the strategic cities of Suwon and Kumsang in western Korea. Suwon is 17 miles south of burned out Seoul, red-held former South Korean capital. The advance was made with strong air support.

Field dispatches said the patrols, feeling out Communist strength, will go as close to Seoul as they can. Intelligence officers suspect the Chinese command has pulled out 90,000 men formerly massed south of Seoul.

For 36 hours all news of Allied activity in the western part of Korea has been blacked out by the U. S. Eighth army.

The patrol activity pointed toward Seoul was preceded by a naval pounding of Inchon, Seoul's port. Guns of the U. S. heavy cruiser St. Paul and U. S. and Canadian destroyers pounded Red shore batteries. Navy, marine and air force planes pounded the whole Seoul area.

Why have the Chinese Communists pulled back from the approach to Seoul?

Shortage of Supplies

United Nations intelligence officers said the apparent large-scale withdrawal was because of a shortage of supplies—and possibly because of political reasons on orders from Peking. The Chinese are awaiting results of Arab-Asian bloc efforts in the United Nations to carry out a cease-fire.

Indian sources at Lake Success said that without calling a cease-fire the Communist Chinese were holding off fighting to create a cease-fire status pending a U. N. decision.

RICHMOND, Ind., Jan. 26—(AP)—Donald Floyd Nagler, 20, Earlham college honor student, was arrested Thursday on a charge of violating the Selective Service Act.

Harvey G. Foster, agent in charge of the Indianapolis FBI office, said a warrant issued yesterday at Jefferson City, Mo., charged Nagler with failing to report for induction.

Nagler last year won a scholarship given annually to the top student in the sophomore class at Earlham. He is the son of Mrs. Marion Nagler, assistant professor in the department of family life at Purdue university.

Bullet-Proof Plates In Demand

SINGAPORE — (AP) — The government of Thailand wants to get the permission of a Singapore technical engineer to use his patent for the process of bullet-proof steel plates. F. Baldwinson, attacked to the Hume Industries of Singapore, perfected his process in December, 1948, and offered it free of charge to the Federal Government of Malaya for use by rubber planters and tin miners.

Baldwinson's plates have a thickness of one-eighth and one-fourth of an inch. They can easily be mounted on cars, trucks and other vehicles used on rubber estates and around tin mines for protection against Communist terrorist attacks. Tests by Kuala Lumpur police proved the plates successful against heavy rifle and Bren gun fire.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 26—(AP)—An elderly man known as "the teacher" to a household of more than 20 men, women and children, Thursday was acquitted in Magistrate court of solemnizing an illegal marriage.

He is Arlie Osborne, 61, a large man with one black eye brow and one white one. He and his followers came here a year ago from Leesville near Clinton, Mo.

Osborne was charged with the illegal "marriage" last September 21 of Mrs. Margaret Cole, 28, already married and the mother of five children, and A. L. Baker, 23, formerly of Windsor, Mo.

Kefauver Uncovers Bribery, Other Crime In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26—(AP)—The Senate crime investigating committee heard testimony on Thursday New Orleans gamblers tried to bribe a churchman by offer of a new Sunday school building.

Another witness, a real estate dealer, told the committee that gamblers and their political stooges threatened him nine times and told him if he made the trip to New Orleans to testify "it would be his last."

Parson Fined Against Casinos

The Rev. Dana Dawson, 33-year-old minister in adjoining Jefferson Parish (county) told the committee that gamblers offered him a new Sunday school building if he would withdraw from suits filed against the gaudy and openly flourishing casinos.

The Methodist pastor was a plaintiff in a series of "padlock" suits filed in state courts in an effort to close down the night club gambling palaces on the grounds they violated gambling laws.

The minister said he turned down the offer and the congregation erected their own building at a cost of $80,000.

The churchman testified after four witnesses defied the committee, and Chairman Estes Kefauver, Tennessee Democrat, immediately threatened contempt action.

Witnesses Refuse To Answer
The four witnesses declined to answer even the most innocuous questions on the grounds it might incriminate them.

The four were named by Kefauver as: Carlo Marcello, Edward M. (St. Louis Red) Allen, Joe Poretto and J. J. Fogarty.

Poretto and Fogarty were called in late afternoon sessions after the committee opened its hearing today with Kefauver asserting: "We're here because we know New Orleans is the nerve center of illegal interstate operations."

German Engineers Wary Of Future

FRANKFURT — (AP) — German engineering brains that built the Siegfried line and the Atlantic wall wonder what allied rearmament may ask them to do in 1951. A survey of West German construction firms showed that many leading engineers, who served in "Organization Todt" in the last war, are again active.

Fritz Todt, who launched Hitler's vast military building program, is dead. And his successor, Albert Speer, is serving a 20-year international sentence as a war criminal. But most of the technical personnel that turned their blue prints into bustling fortresses, bomb-proof submarine pens, and impregnable underground factories is engaged in peacetime construction today.

These German builders are not sticking their necks out by volunteering proposals to the western powers. A large number had to go through de-Nazification courts, paying with fines or jail terms for their "Todt" records.

Santa Late But Finally Arrives

EL DORADO, Ark., Jan. 26—(P)—Santa Claus didn't visit Jaynelle's home on Christmas.

Finally on Jan. 6, Jaynelle, 11, wrote an El Dorado civic club:

"I read in the paper where you helped people by giving baskets with food and toys at Christmas. But we didn't get a basket. And neither did Santa come to see us. My daddy ran away and left us, and mother doesn't get enough money to buy us food and clothes and can't get a job."

Jaynelle went on that "I really do want a doll," and that her sisters, 13 and three, wanted something too.

This week — almost a month after Dec. 25 — Jaynelle got the doll — a 12-inch one. Little sister got one just like it and big sister got a corduroy jacket and a purse with a make-up kit. Besides there was candy and nuts and stacks of games and toys, crayons and puzzle books.

The Eldorado News-Times, which reported the delayed Christmas, said the civic club asked that it not be identified. Nor was the family identified.

Hubert Finley Red Top Seed Winner

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Jan. 26—(P)—C. H. E. Walther of Booneville won three first places in the annual Missouri State Good Seed show which ended here last night.

Walther won top awards in the hybrid corn, sorghum and white clover classes.

Sikeston exhibitors won five first places. They were: Sikes Farms, winter rye; R. M. Alsop, soybeans (brown or black); Hugh Rogers, lespedeza; Louie Liebie, winter vetch and Jim Taylor, crimson clover.

Top winners in other classes at the show were:

Earl Christiansen, Archie, winter barley; Ray Baolomey, Frankford, soft red winter wheat; Geo. A. Koester, Florissant, soybeans (and yellow to green); Charles T. Gardner, Matthews, cotton; John Potter, King City, spring oats; R. T. Wright, Maryville, timothy; James Pecan Farm, Brunswick, tall fescue.

Court Asked to Upset Verdict

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 26—(P)—The government has asked the federal court here to upset a jury verdict which held that the Vivien Kellems had not willfully violated the withholding tax law.

In two motions filed yesterday, U. S. attorney Adrian W. Maher asked Judge Carroll C. Hincks to set aside the verdict in which the jury decided for Miss Kellems in her civil suit against internal revenue collector John J. Fitzpatrick. The verdict entitled her to recover $6,133 in penalties levied against her.

One motion asked that the court enter a judgment for the defendant. Should that be denied, the other asked for a new trial.

The government contends that the penalties were legally imposed under a statute which provides for them against employers who willfully fail to withhold income taxes from their workers. Miss Kellems admits she deliberately and intentionally refused to withhold taxes from her working force of about 40 in her Stonington factory, but claims her actions were not willful because her motive was to test the constitutionality of the law.

The jury, in its verdict returned Wednesday, agreed with her.

Hal Boyle Wrote Wife to Get Ready For His Return to U.S.

It's true this time. He is almost home from Korea after long and dreary months of reporting his second war.

This was tough one, Frances. It's been a grinding, heart-breaking war of defeat and frustration. And all of us—including Hal—bring some of that frustration back with us.

You have never needed any advice on how to look after the Irishman, but there are a few things to remember:

Give him the sympathetic treatment when he gets home. He's had a rough time of it. If you don't believe it, take a look at that waitline when he enters the door. It's at least three inches under his mid-July measurement. That means you'd better have his trousers taken up a notch to allow for the new streamlined Boyle.

He'll be a little tired, but there's nothing that a few weeks' rest won't cure. A few weeks of good food, sleeping long hours and of recovering from the beating of covering the war.

"Work Now! Not Fun"

He'll complain he can't sprint up three flights of stairs without puffing; and you'll find he'll feel better if he can sneak a catnap in the afternoon.

He says: "I remember when a flight of stairs always was a challenge to me. I'd always run up them two at a time. Now I just walk up—it's work, not fun."

Between us, he's actually just suffering the symptoms of a man who is sneaking up on his fortieth birthday; but one thing is certain, Hal's heart will never slow down to a shuffle.

Even the war hasn't done that to him, although he has seen the worst of it and has reported this one with the same sort of energy he burned up in World War II.

A lot of people in Korea will be sad to see Hal leave. Even a war can't submerge his spirit and his wit and his warm feeling for people.

From riflemen to generals, they liked to have Hal around. He managed to shift their thoughts, for a moment at least, above the drudgery of their job.

For example, there was a time when a general started to brief the correspondents and ended up by being briefed by Boyle. Before we left, Hal was telling the general where the enemy would attack, where the Americans were weak, and what the general should expect.

The general enjoyed the briefing immensely. The Boyle predictions came true—every one of them.

Was No Glumness

The correspondents will miss him most, though, because there never has been any glumness when the Irishman was around.

Back in Tagu, he named our press billet "Happy Holler Hall." He assembled all the middle-aged retreats from the last war in one room which he named the sheep's room. The younger reporters were banished to the goats' room.

The Boyle house rules were "Sleep in For Goats" and "If you don't like our bleating get out."

Back of the billet lived several Korean families—each with a household of children. Once John Davies, of the Newark Daily News, taught the children to chant, "Boyle no good . . . Boyle no good . . ."

They didn't know what they were saying but they were enthusiastic because it was Boyle. The next time Hal came out on the balcony to toss candy and chewing gum to the kids they looked up at him with friendly grins and chanted, "Boyle no good . . ."

Hal joined in their chant. There is little enough kindness amid the hunger and despair of Korea, but walking down the street, if you looked closely, you would see Hal slipping thousand notes (worth a quarter) to the urchins shivering in the cold.

On one breather trip from Korea to Tokyo we bought some heavy fleecy underwear to help us through the freezing weather in North Korea. We went to the 24th division when the temperature was near zero and stayed in a tent.

A few days later I saw Boyle shivering in the cold. I asked him if he had on his heavy underwear. "No," he confessed. "That Korean kid who works for us needed it more than I did."

So you see, even the war hasn't changed Hal, except that he does have three inches off the middle and his pants don't look as if he was stuffed into them. You'll like that.

Fighting Cold on 113th Birthday Today

WAPWALLOPEN, Pa., Jan. 26—(P)—Mrs. Mary O'Neill is 113 years old today and her only concern is shaking the first cold she ever remembers having in her life.

No special celebration is planned for the little old lady. She is spending the day reading the flood of greeting cards received.

Mrs. O'Neill is still clear of mind, but her eyesight is dimming. As a result she gave up helping with the housework during the past year.

FOR NEEDY CHILDREN—This is a poster to be displayed in the nation's Catholic schools, where youngsters will be asked to aid unfortunates in countries still suffering from World War II. The children's drive, to be inaugurated by Pope Pius XII on Ash Wednesday, is part of the Bishops' Campaign for $5,000,000 for overseas relief to be conducted throughout the country on Easter Sunday, Mar. 25.

Revolt on the Soaring Prices

blend they bought a month ago at $1.67 a pound is now quoted at $2.35. A year ago it was 65 cents. He says his mill will buy no more at present prices.

Most carpet mills are reported to have large enough wool inventories to go on producing from 90 days to six months. And many of them are building up their lines made of part synthetic-fibers.

The rollback order on hides, implying a 15 per cent cut in present asking prices, should assure that shoe prices won't go higher, according to Edward Atkins, the executive secretary of the National Association of Shoe chain stores. The order will put a brake on climbing prices, W. Stephenson executive vice president of the National Association of Shoe Manufacturers, agrees but he says that the prices of hides isn't the only thing forcing shoe prices up—there are processing costs along the way, and wage hikes for workers.

The army is also coming into the picture increasingly and thus bolstering the high price of leather. Military needs will take more and more hides out of the civilian market. An army combat boot takes three times as much leather as an ordinary civilian shoe.

Chicago packers also bring up the point that a hide doesn't show up as leather for around two months after it is stripped from the animal. But the hide is usually sold when the animal is killed, and the packers wonder what's going to happen if the price of the hide sold since November but not delivered yet.

Hide prices have been going up fast since the first of the year—increasing about six cents a pound, ESA s.s.s. Apparently some persons are going to be stuck with some expensive hides on their hands.

One tanner says he has a lot of high-priced foreign hides on his hands. They're not included in the ESA rollback and he wonders what he's going to do with them.

A rollback isn't always as simple as it sounds.

Minstrel Show Before PTA

The Horace Mann PTA met last Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting was in honor of "Dad's night."

A minstrel show was given by the Missouri Pacific Women's club. The pupils of the fourth grade, taught by Mrs. Lucille Hudson, and the fifth grade pupils, taught by Miss Challis Johnson, sang the following songs: "Frosty the Snowman," with Loren Douglas Sutherland as the accompanist and "Marshmallow World" and "Winter Wonderland" accompanied by Miss Johnson.

After the meeting everyone was invited to the luncheon where coffee and doughnuts were served.

Cassey Jones was a real person, an engineer on the Illinois Central railroad.

Pitching For The Browns Is Showing Improvement

(This is the fifth of a series of 16 stories written by the major league managers for the Associated Press under their own bylines telling how their teams shape up for 1951, and sizing up the other clubs.)

By Zack Taylor
St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26—(P)—The fate of the St. Louis Browns rests on our pitching. If our pitching keeps improving, as it did toward the end of last season, we may fool a lot of people.

Aside from our pitching, we are pretty well off. We have a fine crop of rookies coming up. Somehow, the Browns always have some good looking kids coming up each year. This year is no exception. We have a kid like Frank Saucier, a young outfielder, who has led three leagues in three seasons. Because we are strong in the outfield, we may have to convert Saucier into a first baseman.

I have heard some good news about some other youngsters, but am in no position to say much about them. I do believe, however, that Bill Kennedy, the left-hander the Browns sent to Baltimore last season, is about ready. He had a fine year with the Orioles. I believe he has gained the necessary confidence that should make him a winner in the big time.

A couple of youngsters from San Antonio might help us. One is Lou Sleater, a southpaw pitcher we got from the Giants on waivers last spring. He had a good year in the Texas league. Another is Procopio Herrera, a Mexican boy who really can pitch. He won eight and lost twelve last year but was improving all the time. He was the star of the Dixie series, winning two important games.

Bobby Young and Merrill Coombs should give us good protection in our infield. Coombs was drafted from San Diego, the club that got him from Washington. He is a fine fielder and a timely hitter. Young, from what I've been told is a whiz around second base. He set some sort of a fielding record at Baltimore last year. His hitting is a question mark, though.

However, I'm not too worried about our infield. We have a veteran like George Stirmweiss, the former Yankee, at second base; the ever-improving Tommy Upton at short and our rookie prize of last year, Don Lenhart at third base.

We have lost Dick Kokos, our hard hitting outfielder, and Owen Friend, promising infielder, to the army. That will hurt us. Both are fine young ball players. Both would have been better in 1951. I don't know just how the rest of the boys stand, from the military standpoint.

Garver Improves

Our pitching, once again, will revolve around Ned Garver. Ned is one of the best pitchers in the league, although he still has not reached his peak. I took him in 1948 as a green kid and he has improved each year. He still is far from his peak. He won 13 games for me last year but would easily have won 20 with a first division club. His earned run average was the second best in the league.

I look for Roy Sievers to return to his freshman form after a typical sophomore year. He is too great a hitter to have two bad seasons in a row. That Ken Wood is another fine outfielder. He has the strongest arm in the league. He was out with injuries for the most part of last season, otherwise he would have been high up there for rookie of the year honors.

My catching is pretty well fixed with Sherm Lollar and Les Moss to divide the duties. We also drafted Clyde Klutz, a veteran receiver, to help us.

As was the case last year, it should be a four-team race with New York, Cleveland, Boston and Detroit fighting it out among themselves. However, the draft could change the looks of things in a short time.

Games Are Now At Fever Heat

The basketball tournament observer says:

Four semi-final ball games are now water under the bridge. I don't believe that anyone who witnessed these games last night will question the statement that, from a spectator viewpoint, they just couldn't have been more interesting. Convention hall would hardly have provided the proper environment for a man with a week heart, as excitement ran at fever pitch through five hours of hard-played basketball.

Perhaps the most sparkling individual performance was exhibited by Fitzsimmons, diminutive Farber guard. Fitzsimmons hooped 23 markers, and his ball-handling and all around floor play were superb.

The tourney's leading scorer continues to be Don McMillan, CBC ace. Don canned 29 points in his team's thriller-diller 54-52 won over Rolla. This effort, added to his previous 31 counters, gives him a total of 60 points in two games. It looks like no one can stop Don from swishing the nets with monotonous regularity.

Hats off to scrappy Green Ridge for their near upset of Farber. Green Ridge's hopes for victory went out the window when Anderson and Koons fouled out in the fourth quarter.

It's too early to pick an all-tournament team, but here is our choice: Roach of Rolla, Keens of Green Ridge, Wolfe of Columbia, Salmons of Creighton, with Crain of Rolla being the fifth choice.

Bird with Town & Country, should prove an adequate substitute for any of the above.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—Every Wednesday morning, a handful of senators gathers quietly in the Senate dining room for prayer and worship. They try to keep this meeting secret between themselves and their maker, and the words they speak usually are more poignant and straight-from-the-heart than their speeches on the Senate floor. Such were the remarks last week of Virginia's Democratic Sen. A. Willis Robertson.

"A cynic has described the old testament as being a history of wars wrapped up in a prayer for peace," Robertson told the little band of Senatorial worshippers. Then he outlined the wars that have raged over tiny Palestine, the cradle of Christianity.

Robertson thoughtfully added: "History teaches and science confirms that human nature in all races and in all ages has been very much the same, with a percentage of good people and a percentage of evil ones. History likewise teaches us that no nation has ever achieved lasting peace by superiority of arms."

"The Jews of the first century wanted and expected a Messiah who would by force release them from bondage.

"In the present emergency," Robertson continued, "Democratic nations may be able to assemble sufficient force to defeat the Communists on the battlefield. But such a victory would not settle the fundamental conflict between truth and error, between good and evil.

"Peace will, in my humble opinion, continue to escape the chancelleries of the world until it finds a home in the hearts of men," counseled the senator from Virginia.

Capital News Capsules

Byrnes and Acheson—Ex-secretary of State Jimmie Byrnes, now governor of South Carolina, has assured Dean Acheson he will support him 100 per cent in his campaign to send six divisions of American troops to Europe this year. Byrnes passed along this news to Acheson through a North Carolinian, Undersecretary Webb, when Webb went to South Carolina to attend Byrnes' inauguration. Webb told Byrnes he would be welcome in Washington for consultations with Acheson on foreign policy.

Russian jet planes—General Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, is worried about the high quality of Russian jet fighters now in action over Korea. Despite the news headlines telling of American air victories, Vandenberg has a report on his desk indicating that the Russian MIG-15 and LA-17 fighters are highly maneuverable. What's even more disturbing is that the Russians are now getting into mass production of an even faster jet—the TU-10.

Austerity for brass hat?—Secretary of Defense Marshall has suggested that we are spoiling our G. I.'s with too much transportation, recreation, and costly coddling. However, why not let the army's austerity program begin with the brass hats—including their private airplanes and limousines.

Ku Klux Klan—Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, U. S. army retired, appealed to the Georgia parole board to release Emory Burke, leader of Super-Ku Klux Klanism, the Columbians. In contrast, South Carolina's new governor, Jimmie Byrnes, has taken a forthright stand against the Klan while the Georgia legislature has "legislatively ripped the hoods from all Klansmen."

Shakespeare to the rescue—Archie Alexander, live-wire assistant secretary of the army, tried to recall a biblical quotation which he said he wanted to use in a speech. Scouring the Pentagon, he couldn't find one Protestant Bible in the entire building. He even tried the office of Maj. Gen. Roy Parker, army chief of chaplains, but after a frantic search, a red-faced underling explained that General Parker was out and had taken the Bible with him. Finally, Alexander found a Bible on top of the desk of Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, but this turned out to be a Catholic Bible and didn't contain the quote Alexander had in mind. The harassed assistant secretary finally decided to quote Shakespeare instead.

Family feud—Mobilization Boss Charlie Wilson really wanted to get rid of Price Administrator Mike DiSalle, not Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine. However, DiSalle was in too solid with President Truman, so Valentine got bounced instead. Angrily, Valentine wrote three sizzling letters to Truman but tore up each of them before writing his mild letter of resignation. Meanwhile, Wilson is still calling DiSalle incompetent behind his back.

Rigid Controls

An important meeting on economic policy was held last week across the street from the White House, and, with the blessing of the President, these decisions were made:

1. A really tough program of price, wage, and scarce material controls will be instituted. Defense Mobilization Charlie Wilson is afraid the defense program will be destroyed by inflation and production as usual, therefore wants strict controls soon.

2. First will be the price freeze. New Economic Policy-Maker Eric Johnston and Price Administrator Mike DiSalle hope to get the order out immediately. Lights are burning in the price agency right now. This will be followed by specific price orders, and price rollbacks, in key cost-of-living and defense items. This is a victory for Mike DiSalle.

3. Action in the price field will pave the way for a wage freeze to prevent a round of wage increases this spring.

Note—Voluntary appeals against production-as-usual are not working, and orders limiting scarce materials and technical manpower are in the works. Nonessential production, especially in electronics, construction, and motor vehicles, will be curtailed.

Washington Pipeline

Ex-Sen. Frank Myers of Pennsylvania, Democrat, is planning to run against Sen. Ed Martin, Pennsylvania Republican . . . Senate GOP secretary Mark Trice built a blazing fire in his office fireplace the other day though the temperature outside was nearly 80. Reason: He was burning a stack of secret Republican papers. First, however, he took the precaution of sealing each document in an envelope before burning; then bolting the door to keep out stray Democrats . . . Souvenir bricks and woodwork from the White House will be sold to the public beginning February 1. Each congressman has been given a quota for his constituents for the cost of mailing and handling. If you want a brick from the White House, write your congressman . . . Ambassador Robert Butler of Minnesota will soon resign as envoy to Cuba. He's looking for a bigger job . . . Vice-president Alben Barkley has been released from naval hospital, where he went for a checkup following his strenuous election campaign of last fall. The Veep shed 29 and a half pounds.

Colleges Themselves Can Take 'Fix' Out of Basketball

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The New York basketball scandal involving two youths from Manhattan College is about the seventh unearthed in the past few years.

When a sordid story like this keeps repeating itself, it seems fair to ask: What can we do about it?

It's not enough to deplore the character weakness that leads an occasional young athlete to succumb to a bribe. Some of the coaches of eastern teams have been inclined to put the full blame on this. One went so far as to describe the newest plot as a "crime of the times," adding: "We're living in a period of lawlessness."

But we should at least explore the possibility that other facts have a bearing on these recurring scandals.

One stand-out fact is that in recent years basketball has become much more of a spectacle than formerly. Rules changes that paved the way for high-scoring duels were a prelude. Then the sports promoters began taking the game off the campus and into the big arenas like Madison Square Garden, the Chicago Stadium, and others.

They couldn't have done this, of course, without the collaboration of the colleges involved. The schools obviously were attracted by the lure of big gates. To some small institutions, basketball became the same sort of provider that football is to big schools.

Not only do the receipts help the schools defray other athletic costs; they add prestige and stature to these institutions and thus help their general revenues.

Some of the basketball contests have had all the flavor of football bowl games; big inter-sectional matches between top teams from coast to coast. From the fans' viewpoint, this meant a great show. From the players' standpoint, excitement, travel, the test of the "big time."

But all these good things have been bought at a considerable price. The game has become infected with extreme commercialization. It has become an open invitation to big gamblers, and they have accepted the opportunity. The record of fixed games tells the tale.

Some may argue that, now that gamblers have moved in, the game couldn't be recaptured from them even if big arena contests were barred and basketball returned to the campus. College authorities who first took the Army-Notre Dame football game out of Yankee Stadium and then canceled the series felt otherwise. They believed that going back to the campus would indeed be a discouragement to the gamblers.

It seems clear that putting a college sport into the category of a spectacle has the opposite effect. Gambling in this field is unlikely to diminish so long as the great arenas are made the scene of major contests.

When commercial exploitation of college athletes proceeds to the point where scandal is almost commonplace, it is time for colleges to ask themselves whether the revenue benefits are not now outweighed by the destructive moral consequences.

Keep Your Fingers Crossed

It will take a while to get used to the idea: John L. Lewis has signed a new coal contract without a fuss. There will not be a coal strike this year, unless he dumps up some other excuse for one.

The mine chieftain is moving up the scale in his 70's now. Maybe he's getting too old for these bitter scraps. Or maybe it's just Professor Lewis, master of labor strategy, taking a sabbatical. Wait till next year!

Looking Backward

• Forty Years Ago

A permit was issued to Thomas H. Johnson, contractor, by the city for the erection of brick school building at the corner of Sixteenth street and Park avenue to be known as Southwest school. It was to contain eight rooms and to cost $28,000.

Complaint was made to the city authorities about a cattleman driving almost one hundred head of cattle through the public streets of the city.

The $12,000 viaduct over the railway tracks on Washington avenue has been completed and is ready for traffic.

Weather conditions were most remarkable it being 61 degrees above zero at 6 a. m., and 71 degrees at 2 p. m.

The Doctor Says—

Removal of Fibroid Tumor Calls for Difficult Decision

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The most common "women's trouble" (next to childbirth) is a condition known as fibroids. These are tumors made up of muscle and other tissue which grow in the walls of the womb. They are not cancerous but are so frequent that about one woman in five has one or more by the time she reaches the age of thirty-five.

Some fibroids are small and never cause any trouble. Others, however, grow slowly and may produce a feeling of pressure in the abdomen and general weariness. The most common and troublesome sign is excessive or abnormal bleeding and if the fibroids continue to grow this gets constantly worse.

Specialists in disease of women have done a lot of work on fibroids and as a result there is not so much suffering from them now as there used to be. Small fibroids which are not producing any symptoms merely have to be watched from time to time since they may grow and cause difficulty, at least up to the time of change of life.

Larger ones must be followed more closely. If they start to grow rapidly or if the symptoms get much worse something may have to be done for them.

What produces fibroids is not exactly known and as yet there is no way to prevent them. On the other hand if the age of the patient, the size of the tumors, and the trouble they are causing warrant it there is a cure.

It is surgery. It is not often satisfactory to remove the fibroids and leave the womb in place so that the operation usually involves removing the entire uterus, including the ovaries.

Factors Weighed

The fact that removal of the womb is a serious operation makes the decision difficult. In most cases it can be postponed till after or near the end of child-bearing period through the presence of fibroids itself tends to make conception difficult. At any rate, whether to operate or not only be decided after weighing all the factors in each individual patient.

Many women have been saved years of discomfort by having this operation. One cannot help but wonder whether some of the invalid women of previous generations were not kept in that state by having fibroids which could not be treated at that time.

Split Family Purse Evenly, But Don't Fight Over Money

Because the husband earns the pay check should he have the final say-so in how the family income is spent?

A wife who thinks the answer should be "No" but has found that in her marriage it is "Yes," writes to me:

"Shouldn't the things a wife considers important carry as much weight as the things the husband thinks are absolute necessities?"

"In our case it is a good, well-furnished home versus expensive vacations, a big car, equipment for my hobby that momentarily catches my husband's fancy."

"We have the big car. We take expensive trips. My husband never hesitates to spend money for anything that he wants for himself. But we can never 'afford' improvements on our house. When I mention that the furniture is shabby, I'm told it will just have to do."

"Yet if we saved in other ways, we could have some of the things that seem important to me, and which I think would really mean more to us as a family, since our children are reaching the age where the kind of home they have is important."

Womanly Wiles Will Work Wonders

It does sound as though things are a bit one-sided in your family, if your husband always has the final say-so in how the money is spent.

Don't start fighting over money, though, to get your way. It won't be worth it, even if you win.

Try to get your husband interested in how your home looks by using a little feminine psychology. You might, for instance, try inviting someone he considers important out to dinner and before the guest arrives remarking that you wish you could afford to fix up the living room a bit. He'll see how it looks more clearly when he starts looking at it through someone else's eyes.

But win or lose—don't take this money problem too seriously. After all, a happy home is a good home. And a home is never happy when a couple is fighting over money.

any time of the year but they are fatter and more palatable during the so-called "R" months.

• Q's and A's

Q—For what is the West Indian island of Tobago famous?

A—Tobago is said to be the island described by Defoe in "Robinson Crusoe."

Q—What was the first American commemorative coin?

A—First and best known is the Columbian half-dollar, issued in 1892 and 1893. It was struck in connection with the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

Q—What was Woodrow Wilson's definition of the "eight horses of triumph" which drew the triumphal chariot?

A—He defined them as: Force of character, readiness of resources, clearness of vision, grasp of intellect, courage of conviction, earnestness of purpose, instinct and capacity for leadership.

Q—How early did the Chinese observe an eclipse of the sun?

A—In 2158 B. C.

Q—In what months are oysters good to eat?

A—Oysters are good to eat

Q—Would a solid sheet of steel or iron sink to the bottom of the ocean, even at depths of many miles?

A—Yes. There is a slight compression of the water at great depth but, practically, the density remains the same as near the surface. A body will float only if its average density is less than that of the liquid in which it is placed.

Q—In how many cities has the U. S. Congress convened?

A—Before settling down in Washington, D. C., Congress had met in eight different cities.

Q—To whom were the 1949 Freedom Awards made?

XXIII
PAUL TWING shook his head as he spoke, seated on the bunk with Captain Martin Jaboe, Judy and May around him.

"It's been for nothing," Paul repeated. "If there were only some way out of this—some way to keep from sending little Judy back to—to that woman!"

Captain Martin Jaboe started to say something, but Judy Twing interrupted. She reached out her hand and took Paul's hand in hers.

"No, Uncle Paul. I want to stay with you," she said.

Paul put his arm around her, pulled her little head against his chest and stroked her.

"I'll get sent to the electric chair," Paul continued grimly. "It's death for kidnapping, you know. May Jenkins will spend the next 10 years or so in prison." His voice became hard. "It's a great solution, Jo-Jo, but I'm not having it—thanks!"

Captain Jaboe shook his head as he looked at the child.

"She doesn't understand," he said. "Don't you see, Paul? It's impossible. For her sake—for yours. And," he turned to May Jenkins, "for your sake too. We're your friends, Paul. We'd suggest nothing if it wasn't for the best."

"No," Paul said stubbornly. Captain Jaboe seemed at loss for words. He looked at May. "Can't you make him see?"

"How can I?" May asked. "I don't see myself. You want him to surrender. To go to jail—"

"And to the electric chair," Paul reminded the sea captain.

Moss, who had remained in the background since he had been introduced by Captain Jaboe, now stepped forward in front of the captain.

"You're all wrong, Twing. That's not what is going to happen to any of you."

CAPTAIN JABOE'S lips twisted into a half-smile again. "Maybe you didn't catch his full name when I introduced you. This is Victor Moss."

"Victor Moss, the criminal lawyer!" Paul's eyes narrowed, then widened. He remembered the lawyer's name mentioned in the newspaper accounts of the formation of "Justice for Twing" clubs.

"The best there is," Jaboe added. "If he can't win a case, it isn't much of a case. And I think you've got a good one. I don't think you ever did lose one, did you, Moss?"

Moss smiled. "I lost a few, but that was a long time ago. Listen to me, Twing. Jaboe's giving you good, sound advice. You can't get away—no forever. Give yourself up now, and put yourself in my hands. It's your best bet."

"Listen to him, Paul," said Captain Jaboe.

"Yes, listen. I've swung juries by manufacturing sympathy for men who were hardboiled sinners. You're a natural. You're no sinner and I'm staking my reputation that you'll come out on top and that includes legal custody of the child. What a witness she'll make!"

Paul stared at Moss. Then he asked in a choked voice: "What about May? Can't we keep her out of it?"

The lawyer shook his head. "Of course not. She's in it. She's been seen in it, but we'll take care of her. I don't know anything about the set-up, now she fits into the picture, but I do know you're all right, and the kid's all right and she must be all right too."

PAUL turned to May Jenkins. His face was pale and his eyes were glistening.

"Yes, she's all right," he breathed. "There never was anyone who was righter." He reached out and took May's hand. "What do you think about it, May?"

May's voice was a whisper. "I believe you should do as they say." Paul looked at Jaboe and nodded. "Then that's it, Jo-Jo." He turned again to May and smiled.

"When we got on the ship, May," Paul told her, "I was going to ask you if I could have the captain marry us."

May turned her head away and said nothing, but she pressed his hand as hard as she could. She couldn't use her voice.

Captain Jaboe chuckled. He slapped Paul's shoulder with the back of his hand. "Say it right, you swab!"

PAUL stood up and put his hands on May's shoulders. Judy Twing, who had been at Paul's knees, was taught between Paul and May.

"This is a heck of a time and a heck of a place to say it," Paul said hoarsely. "but I love you, May. Darling May. I think you're wonderful. Will you marry me?"

May's lips moved but nobody, not even Captain Jaboe who was close by, seemed to hear anything. Judy Twing poked her head out from between the couple and grinned impishly at Captain Jaboe and Victor Moss.

"She said, 'Yes,' Judy giggled.

RELIGIOUS REMARKABLES - - - By Scheel

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Materialism

Materialism is the heresy that man's happiness lies in worldly prosperity. Materialism denies that man has a soul. If it has a god, that god is an economic one. If it has a creed, it is the creed of self-indulgence.

Materialism has other names. One is Secularism which means putting human values on a non-moral and non-religious foundation. Another is Scientism, which denies any place to tradition, faith or theology. A third is Progressivism, which teaches that sin is merely an unrefined animal manifestation which will be eradicated in time through evolution and science.

There is no lack of prophets and pundits among the materialists. But their theories do not stand up under scrutiny. If prosperity is the way to happiness, why is there so much frustration among the rich? Does wealth make men more virtuous? Newspaper headlines are daily proof that this is not so. Do rich educational opportunities alone ensure high standard of decency and honor among growing youth? One answer lies in the fact that America today has more juvenile delinquency than ever before.

Science has led to the discovery of atomic energy; but the atom bomb has brought a spirit of pessimism and despair everywhere. There is a grim comedy in the thought that the materialists of America—and their number is greater than one likes to think—are now eyeing the world's pre-eminent materialistic state with keen apprehension rather than admiration.

Materialism is the road to utter disillusion. It is an invitation to catastrophe. When man turns from God, he turns also against nature and thus eventually against himself; for in the end violations of divine and natural laws bring inescapable penalties.

In place of the order, law and harmony designed by God, materialism creates confusion, crime and anarchy. It causes men to prey upon each other; it denies any absolute authority, save that of the State. It leaves the individual disorientated and dissatisfied.

Man needs a purpose in life. He needs something that elevates him above the status of an unthinking animal. He needs the stimulus of high inspiration; he requires a faith that will enable him to see a divine pattern even in suffering and hardship.

Materialism would destroy religion. But it has nothing to offer in its place except enslavement to a mechanical concept of life. It has nothing to say to the soul. It has no poetry to stir men's spirits, no compassion, no deep understanding. It calls for shutting out God's light in the world. It would silence His voice calling His children to a destiny that is eternal, and joyful beyond human understanding.

Sunday School Lesson

"He Taught Them as One With Authority"

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

In Matthew 7:29, where the above words are found, it is added "and not as their scribes." The contrast is striking for the scribes were supposedly the authoritative and official teachers of religion.

Jesus, so far as we know, had no authority other than that inherent in His words and deeds. He was neither a priest, nor a Levite, nor a scribe. He had nothing corresponding to a modern diploma or credentials and His "school" must have been almost, if not completely, unique in the annals of education.

He occasionally spoke in the synagogue, with which a school was associated in a remarkable system of Jewish education. But His teaching was given as He went about from place to place; from a boat cast out a little from the shore (Mark 4); from homes where He was entertained (Luke 7:36-48); and most of all as He sat on a hillside, surrounded by His disciples (Matthew, chapters 5-7).

The great fact of this supreme, but unofficial, Teacher, depending only on the inherent authority of the truth He uttered, is impressive. The lesson which it signifies should not be lost, or minimized.

There is, of course, another side to what I have said concerning authority and official sanctions. In our complex world standards are necessary.

Our schools would suffer, if anybody without some standard of qualification should be permitted to teach; we should be at mercy of 'quacks,' if doctors did not have to have proper credentials; and shyders would probably outnumber honest and competent lawyers, if men and women were not "called to the bar" only upon fulfilling proper studies and requirements.

All that is plain. But what is important, and sometimes forgotten, is that such authoritative and official credentials, necessary as they are, do not by any means always guarantee what they are supposed to imply. An outwardly qualified teacher may in fact be quite incompetent, and I should like to make sure that the doctor or lawyer who serves me actually possesses what his credentials assume.

I have known important doctors and untrustworthy lawyers. So authority does actually rest ultimately upon something more than official status and sometimes a teacher, a bone-setter, a preacher, comes along, who, without any official standing, reveals a knowledge and competency quite beyond that of many who are outwardly qualified.

Such a one pre-eminently was Jesus. But He has not been alone among the great unofficial teachers of religion. Many unofficial prophets have proclaimed God's truth, and won men to the truth they declared. And it ought to be so in the realm of religion, where values are inherent, or lacking, in actual word and action and which ought to be the most free and untampered of all of life's areas.

I emphasize these things today, for there is a great tendency toward over-emphasis on organization and officialdom. In a former generation one used often to hear a distinction expressed between churchianity and Christianity. Now churchianity may be and ought to be, Christianity, but there is always a profound need of going back to the original sources and keeping near to the Christ. In Him alone can the fellowship of those who profess His name be truly Christian.

Four Top Independent Teams Battle for Berths in MIBC Tournament Finals Tonight

Local basketball fans saw four of the best tournament games that have ever been played in the Lions' Missouri Independent Basketball Championship tournament at Liberty park convention hall Thursday night in the quarter-finals.

Farber came from behind to trip a scrapping Green Ridge I.O.O.F. team. Columbia had a rough go before they brushed the Creighton Moore Hatchery quintet aside. CBC nosed out the Rolla Ramblers in the final seconds of their contest. And the Warrensburg Superior Cleaners upset favored Lebanon in the final game of the night, which was finished at 12:45 o'clock this morning.

Games Ran Close

Three of the games were decided by a mere two-point margin and the other by a scant ten points. A large crowd witnessed the four thrilling games and showed the appreciation of the fine show which each team put on with several loud rounds of applause and vocal support of their pet team.

In the first tilt the Columbia Semmons Furniture company beat a smaller Creighton team in a well played game by a 73-63 score. The powerful scoring machine of the Columbia crew proved too much for the hustling Creighton players, but it was not strong enough on defense to keep the game losers from scoring. It was not a run-away contest.

Semmons jumped off to a quick start in the opening round, scoring 27 points while holding the southern Missourians to 14. By intermission the Columbians led 41-26. In the third period Fiddler McKee and his Creighton teammates dunked in 14 markers to pull to a 56-40 deficit. Creighton outscored the Columbians in the final quarter but did not have enough drive to catch up with the deadly shooting of little Cy Delay and company.

Delay and Portman each poured 23 points through the hoop to lead the winners' attack. McKee put on a sterling performance for the losers, as he hit for 19 counters before fouling out in the final frame. He dumped in 31 tallies in the Creighton victory over Versailles in Wednesday night's game.

To Semi-Finals
The win advances Columbia to the semi-finals tonight when they will meet the cool operating Farber Independents.

The highly touted Farber Independents were nearly upset by the scrappy Green Ridge I.O.O.F. five but squeaked out a 72-70 win. Green Ridge led most of the contest as they ran Farber ragged but when their star center Boone Anderson left the game via the foul route they showed a weak spot on rebounding.

Cotton Fritzsimmions was the big gun for Farber as he pumped in 23 points and displayed the best passing and dribbling game shown in any tournament since 1947 when Darrell Lorraine led Conway to the MIBC title.

The underdog Green Ridge quintet was paced by their hot-rocker forward Brown, who tossed in 19 counters.

The two teams traded buckets early in the first quarter until the I.O.O.F.'s jumped ahead by 14-10. Farber started rolling late in the final minutes of the second quarter and held a 34-34 tie. Giger hit a long set shot with five seconds to go before the half to knot the score for Farber.

Several times in the opening periods it looked as though Farber had run out of gas after chasing the Green Ridge kids over the court but got a second wind in the final two frames to stop their opponents lightning fast breaks.

The northeast Missouri crew led 51-48 at the three-quarters mark as Fritzsimmions hit the nets for ten points during that quarter.

Green Ridge battled back in the final stanza and gained a lead with four minutes to go but Farber fought back into the lead.

The score was tied on three occasions before the I.O.O.F. squad again went into the lead by a scant two point, 70-68, margin. At that point it looked as though the game was in the bag for the southern Pettis county boys, since there was only 45 seconds playing time remaining.

But former Sedalian Norman Thompson hit a jump shot to knot the score at 70-all and Hall proceeded to score on a fast break with seven seconds remaining to put the game on ice. A shot from mid-court by Brown of Green Ridge, as the horn sounded ended the game as it bounded off the backboard.

CBC Defeated Rockets
In the third game of the evening the local Central Business College Basketeers had tough riding before subduing the Rolla Rockets 54-52. This game was not as thrill packed as the Green-Ridge-Farber contest since each team was off in its shooting but it was a topnotch game from the fans' standpoint.

Big Don McMillan again displayed his usual great brand of basketball, as he sank 29 points to lead Jack Albert's Basketeers. Don also played a standout game on defense and his rebounding was superb.

At the end of the initial frame the Basketeers were out in front 13-7 as McMillan accounted for nine of those points. Rolla closed the gap in the second stanza dumping in 16 points and making the halftime score read 24-23 in favor of the locals.

CBC increased its lead to 44-39 in the third stanza as Don McMillan registered 10 of these markers. Rolla grabbed a short lead in the closing quarter but McMillan and Dick Harris erased that by dunking in a bucket each. The Rockets outscored the locals in that period but their 14 points was not enough to knock off the Sedalians.

The Business College quintet played without the services of their ace rebounder and playmaker Foster McGuire, who is out for the rest of the tourney with a wrenched knee.

The nightcap was a rough affair and tempers flared several times, much to the enjoyment of the fans. Thirty-three fouls were called by referees Rockie Carver and Ralph Dow and one player was banished from the contest when he got a little "huffy" with the officials. Warrensburg won the contest by knocking off the favored Lebanon five by a 51-49 score. The win matches the Superior Cleaners against the CBC Basketeers in the semi-finals tonight.

Lumpee and Egbert led the winners by scoring ten and nine points respectively, while Brown of Lebanon took high point honors for the game with 16 counters. Lebanon led 42-35 at the end of the third quarter but a surge by Warrensburg, headed by Sedalia's Bobby Ray reversed the decision.

Bengals Engage Jeff City Jays Here Tonight

The Smith-Cotton Tigers will battle with the Jefferson City Jays tonight on the Smith-Cotton court starting at 8:00 o'clock. The Bengals have handed the Jays two defeats this season, one in the pre-season Central Missouri Conference Tournament at Columbia in the finals and the other in a league game at Jefferson City.

The Tigers have a season record of 12 wins and six losses besides the CEMO conference tournament title.

Smith-Cotton has shown considerable improvement in their last two games against Marshall and Raytown, winning both after an early January slump.

Starting for Coach Jim Ball will be Eddie Johnson and Bill Morgan at forwards, Bill "Gabby" McCrary and Claude Bill Murphy at the guard positions and Bobby Shawver at center.

Southern Cal Drops Crisler And Brown As Possible Coaches

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26—(AP)—The University of Southern California is still without a football coach but Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Fritz Crisler of Michigan have been eliminated from consideration.

Dr. Fred C. Fagg, Jr., president of USC, issued a statement last night saying that in fairness to Crisler and Brown and in order to "preclude embarrassment to them through further speculative use of their names, I can state that they are no longer under consideration for the position."

Dr. Fagg did not say who is to keep the team here," Kurash said, "but it was just an impossible task."

DEL RIO, Tex.—(AP)—The Val Verde hotel, where Judge Roy Bean meted out the only low west of the Pecos, 78 years ago is being torn down.

The Southern Pacific railroad built the building when Indian tribes menaced the white man. J. W. Burns, whose mother operated the hotel in its early days, says "a man could get a clean bed for 25 cents in those days and a whole beef liver for five cents."

The Val Verde is the fourth of Del Rio's old hostilities to be dismantled.

The Railroads RESPECT...

The Union Leaders seek to REPUDIATE...

this agreement!

What is the TRUTH?

At various stages in the present dispute with the brotherhoods of railroad operating employees

... the railroads agreed to arbitrate. The union leaders refused.

... the railroads accepted the recommendations of President Truman's Emergency Board. The union leaders refused.

... the railroads accepted the White House proposal of August 19, 1950. The union leaders refused.

Finally an Agreement was signed at the White House on December 21, 1950. Now the union leaders seek to repudiate the Agreement.

The railroads stand ready to put the terms of this Agreement into effect immediately, with back pay at the rates and dates indicated.

The Agreement is given in full below.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C.
December 21, 1950

1. Establish 40 hour week for yardmen with increase of 23 cents effective October 1, 1950, and additional 2 cents effective January 1, 1951.

2. Set aside 40 hour week agreement until January 1, 1952, and establish 6 day work week for yardmen. Effective with the first pay roll period after 30 days from the date of execution of the formal agreement. Yardmen required by the carrier to work on the 7th day to be paid overtime rates except engineers who shall receive straight time rates for the 7th day. This does not create guarantees where they do not now exist. On and after October 1, 1951, three months' notice to be given of desire to go on 40 hour week. Provide for consideration of availability of manpower and 4 cents per hour if and when the 40 hour week actually becomes effective.

3. Settle rules for 40 hour week and 6 day week.

4. Grant yard conductors and brakemen other rules such as daily earnings minimum, car retarder operators and footboard yardmasters as recommended by Emergency Board No. 81.

5. Settle following rules:
Initial Terminal Delay (Conductors and Trainmen)
Interdivisional Runs
Pooling Caboose (Conductors and Trainmen)
Reporting for Duty
More than One Class of Service
Switching Limits
Air Hose (Conductors and Trainmen)
Western Differential and Double Header and Tonnage Limitation (Conductors and Trainmen, all Territories)

6. Road men to receive 5 cents per hour increase effective October 1, 1950, and additional 5 cents per hour increase effective January 1, 1951.

7. Quarterly adjustment of wages on basis of cost of living index (1 point to equal 1¢ per hour. First adjustment April 1, 1951. Base to be 176).

8. Agreement embodying principles applicable to yardmasters to be entered into for benefit of yardmasters.

9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate.

Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month shall be the same as that now paid for the 225-hour month. Except that four dollars and ten cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951.

10. In consideration of above, this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows:

No proposals for changes in rates of pay, rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees, parties hereto, within a period of three years from October 1, 1950, except such proposals which may changes in rules or working conditions which have been initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however, that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy, workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called annual improvement increases, the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952, to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for employees covered by this agreement are justified, in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be, and the effective date thereof. The carrier representatives shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote.

11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision.

The usual protections for arbitrators, miscellaneous rates, special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.

**The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates, rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement.

Draft's Standard Lowered

Barriers Barring 150,000 To Be Cut To Boost Manpower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—(AP)—Draft standards will be cut to take in perhaps 150,000 men now barred for physical and mental reasons, a Defense Department official said today.

Reporting this to Congress, Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, told reporters that draft boards may check all the 799,000 already rejected for these reasons.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee remarked that he had heard reports $10,000 a year athletes have been turned down. Mrs. Rosenberg said occupation is not the criterion in passing on a man's ability to serve.

Other Developments

The rush to mobilize against what President Truman terms Russia's world conquest plans also brought these developments:

1. Chairman Johnston (D-SC) of the Senate Civil Service Committee asked the Senate to authorize an investigation by his group of government use of its manpower policy for the government for emergency.

Johnston said half the jobs done by military personnel are civilian in nature. Putting civilians in them would save $1,500,000,000 a year. He said, because it costs so much more to maintain a soldier in uniform than to pay a salary.

2. J. S. Nicholas, a Yale University scientist, told the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee that many student scientists, doctors, engineers and other pre-professionals were rushing to enlist in order to choose their own branch of service before being drafted.

Proposals Flood Committee

The committee heard proposals for wide deferments for these youths to conserve the nation's short supply of scientific manpower; for drafting recently married non-veterans, and college students who do not pass high in the Armed Services intelligence tests.

Both Senate and House committees are considering defense departments proposals for a draft of 18 year olds and a Universal Military Training system to bring the military forces to 3,462,205 men by June 30 or shortly thereafter, and to maintain a strong reserve supply.

While the Senate group was reported to be inclined to approve a draft of boys of 18, the House committee probed for alternative methods.

Gov. Earl Warren Principal Speaker At State GOP Rally

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Jan. 25—(P)—Gov. Earl Warren of California will make a major address before the state-wide Lincoln day gathering of Missouri Republicans in Kansas City February 17.

John W. Mitchell, in charge of arrangements for the Missouri Association of Republicans, said he was not informed whether Governor Warren would cover national or international affairs. The program for the gathering will begin February 16. The banquet at which Governor Warren will speak is set for the evening of Feb. 17.

As a result of the governor's decision to make a major speech, Mitchell said, the banquet will be shifted from the American Legion World War II Memorial building to the arena of the municipal auditorium. He said he expected the banquet to attract many more Republicans with the California governors decision to make a major address.

'The Teacher' Freed By K. C. Magistrate

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25—(P)—An elderly man known as "the teacher" to a household of more than 20 men, women and children, today was acquitted in Magistrate court of solemnizing an illegal marriage.

He is Arlie Osborne, 61, a large man with one black eye and one white one. He and his followers came here a year ago from Leesville near Clinton, Mo. Osborne was charged with the illegal "marriage" last September 21 of Mrs. Margaret Cole, 28, already married, and the mother of five children, and A. L. Baker, 23, formerly of Windsor, Mo.

Mrs. Cole had testified in an earlier hearing before Magistrate Bernard Genfrow that Osborne took her and Cole into the basement of the household and pointed out their living quarters. The magistrate dismissed the charge saying no evidence had been presented that there was a ceremony.

Suspect Escapes

Kenneth A. Kitts (above), 33, of Omaha, Neb., escaped from the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, county jail. He is shown last Dec. 6 at the time of his arrest at Council Bluffs, Iowa. Kitts was arraigned before federal judge Henry N. Graven at Cedar Rapids on a bank robbery charge in connection with the $38,000 Laursen, Iowa, burglary last Oct. 4. (AP Wirephoto)

Escape Car Found Empty In Des Moines

DES MOINES, Jan. 15—(P)—A black sedan in which officers believe desperado Kenneth Kitts, 33, fled after escaping from a Cedar Rapids, Iowa jail was found abandoned on a side street here today.

The car was one stolen between 5 and 7:30 p. m. Monday a short distance from the Cedar Rapids jail. Detectives said they have established that the car was abandoned here between 8:30 and 9 p. m. Monday. Cedar Rapids is 125 miles from Des Moines.

Kitts escaped mysteriously while being held for trial under $50,000 bond as one of the participants in the $38,000 Laursen, Iowa, bank breaking last Nov. 3. He had been arrested by the FBI which is conducting a nationwide hunt for the fugitive.

Authorities said they believe Kitts drove the stolen car to Des Moines and contacted friends who brought him a second escape car.

John P. Quinn, Council Bluffs, Iowa tavern operator, has been charged by the FBI with aiding Kitts' escape and has been released under $5,000 bond.

Bennie Barone, partner of Quinn who was charged by the FBI with receiving loot from the Laursen robbery, surrendered in Omaha yesterday and was released under $5,000 bond.

4 Persons Die In Two Fires In Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 25—(P)—Four persons—two boys and two men—perished in two separate fires in rooming houses today. Firemen rescued six persons from the blaze that burned out the top two floors of a three-story brick rooming house at 161 North Carpenter Street. One unidentified man was fatally burned.

In the second fire at 1248 South Troy Street, a man and two boys, about five and eight years old, burned to death. All three were Negroes.

More than 40 persons were forced to flee into the street. Temperatures were 8 above zero.

Kefauver Uncovers Bribery, Other Crime In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25—(P)—The Senate crime investigating committee heard testimony today that New Orleans gamblers tried to bribe a churchman by offer of a new Sunday school building.

Another witness, a real estate dealer, told the committee that gamblers and their political stooges threatened him nine times and told him if he made the trip to New Orleans to testify "it would be his last."

Parson Filed Against Casinos
The Rev. Dana Dawson, 33-year-old minister in adjoining Jefferson Parish (county) told the committee that gamblers offered him a new Sunday school building if he would withdraw from suits filed against the gaudy and openly flourishing casinos.

The Methodist pastor was a plaintiff in a series of "padlock" suits filed in state courts in an effort to close down the night

Hitch Stops Price-Wage Rollback

Labor Leaders Voice Strong Opposition To Salary Freeze

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—(P)—An eleventh-hour hitch developed tonight in the government's drive for wage-price controls when labor leaders indicated strong opposition to a wage "freeze."

It was not expected to delay issuance of the general freeze order tomorrow, however.

Informants said Wage Stabilizer Cyrus Ching wanted a unanimous vote on wage policy from his nine-man wage board, but that the order might have to go out without complete unanimity. There are three labor representatives on the board.

New Rollback Date

In another late development, some officials advised newsmen that the widely heralded Jan. 2 date for the rollback on prices was out-dated. They refused to say whether the date would be shifted ahead or back.

There was unofficial speculation that the new date might be Jan. 15.

International repercussions also cropped up in advance of the projected freeze.

Latin American coffee-producing countries urged the administration to adopt a "flexible" policy on any ceilings clamped on coffee prices. They said adjustments should be permitted for any increases in their production costs.

The Latin American nations, which buy much of their farm machinery in the United States, indicated they were seeking to prevent a recurrence of World War II events when the OPA set a ceiling price on coffee in 1941 and rejected persistent demands to raise it.

Other Action

Moving at a fast clip, the mobilization campaign brought these other actions into focus:

Metals—plans to put rigid federal controls over steel, copper and aluminum were outlined by Walter C. Skuce of the National Production Authority at a meeting with industry representatives.

Gasoline—the oil and auto industries agreed that tetra-ethyl lead for anti-knock gasoline must be cut back, but disagreed on how it should be done. Some oil companies said they should be left to decide on their own how to use the lead allocated to them.

Despite some difficulties, officials said the dual price-wage control order could still be expected within 24 hours.

Qualified informants said prices of nearly all goods and services will be frozen. They estimated that nearly 4,000,000 businesses and about 8,000,000 individual items—including meat and some other foods—will be affected.

Wages and salaries are expected to go under "flexible" controls—mostly pegged to present levels, but with leeway for some increases.

Judge Fines Self For Illegal Parking

HOUSTON, Mo., Jan. 25—(P)—Maurice Rothschild, police judge, called the court to order.

"City vs Maurice Rothschild, illegal parking," said J. C. Bardock, city marshal, announcing the first case.

Judge Rothschild responded quickly: "Defendant is fined $1 and costs on plea of guilty."

Designates Friday, Feb. 9 As Day of Prayer

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 25—(P)—Gov. Forrest Smith today set Friday, Feb. 9 as World Day of Prayer in Missouri. He asked all citizens to seek divine guidance "in these days of international tension."

club gambling palaces on the grounds they violated gambling laws. The minister said he turned down the offer and the congregation erected their own building at a cost of $80,000.

The churchman testified after four witnesses defied the committee, and Chairman Estes Kefauver Tennessee Democrat, immediately threatened contempt action.

Witnesses Refuse To Answer
The four witnesses declined to answer even the most innocuous questions on the grounds it might incriminate them.

The four were named by Kefauver as: Carlo Marcello, Edward M. (St. Louis Red) Allen, Joe Poretto, and J. J. Fogarty. Poretto and Fogarty were called in late afternoon sessions after the committee opened its hearing today with Kefauver asserting: "We're here because we know New Orleans is the nerve center of illegal interstate operations."

India Heralds Lull In Fighting As Peace Overture By Chinese

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 25—(P)—India hinted today that the lull on the Korean warfront may be an indication of Chinese Communist readiness at a moment's notice to order a ceasefire, and implored the United Nations to seize upon the lull as an opportunity to launch peace negotiations.

Backed by Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Sir Benegal N. Rau of India demanded priority consideration by the 60-nation political committee of the Asian-Arab bloc proposal calling for an immediate conference of seven nations on the Korean crisis. He said it should take precedence over the U. N. resolution to brand Communist China an aggressor because the Arab-Asian move was more likely to produce the earliest possible end to hostilities.

Although the 12-nation Arab-Asian proposal as originally presented had made no mention of a cease-fire, Rau said the sponsors had this in mind as the first order of business of the projected seven-nation conference.

Russia Accepts Proposal

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said Russia accepted the Asian-Arab proposal. However, he proposed an amendment which would delete a section of the proposal calling upon the U. N. Assembly president to set the time and place of the first session of the proposed seven-nation conference. He proposed that "the conferees" do this. Observers noted this would make the time of the meeting subject to the wishes of Communist China.

In a speech unusually brief for a Soviet delegate in so fateful a meeting, Tsarapkin also proposed that the words "intervention of Communist China" be deleted from the Arab-Asian resolution. He said this was contrary to facts.

Britain's Jebb, urging a go-slow policy, said Peiping's newest message on the Korean situation did not reject the principle of ceasefire before negotiations. He said the suggestion of a "limited" ceasefire should at least be subject for talks, at least as to the length of the truce period.

Jebb said Peiping now had made it "at least reasonably clear" that the Red Chinese proposal for the withdrawal of foreign troops was meant to include the "so-called Chinese volunteers" in Korea. He said it was likewise made clear that the question of the internal affairs of the Korean people should be a matter for discussion at an eventual conference, "whereas previously it had appeared that Peiping's intention was to leave this question entirely to the Koreans."

Jebb Favors Trial

There should be no objections, Jebb said, to further sounding out the Peiping regime in an effort to prevent the spread of the Korean war. He advocated that the United Nations accept no settlement at the expense of U. N. principles, but that it continue to explore possibilities of peaceful settlement.

The latest Chinese Communist message on the Korean situation was relayed Monday in reply to appeals for clarification of Peiping's stand. Later it was reported that the Chinese Communists had given their blessing to the Arab-Asian proposal through an indirect message sent by the Indian ambassador in Peiping.

As Rau made his appeal, informed quarters said the United States would continue to oppose the Arab-Asian proposals and to press for the American demand—that Red China be branded aggressor and that consideration be given to steps to follow that. This contemplates possible sanctions.

Eisenhower To Address Nation Feb. 2

WASHINGTON, June 25—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will make a radio report to the nation Friday, Feb. 2, President Truman announced today.

Mr. Truman told a news conference Eisenhower is returning to Washington next Wednesday from his tour of the North Atlantic Treaty countries and will report that day to the President, the cabinet and the standing group of the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

"On Thursday and Friday, he will make further reports to the Congress," Mr. Truman said in a written statement.

Eisenhower will speak to members of both Senate and House in the Library of Congress next Thursday.

Arrangements are being made for the general to appear before the Senate and House Foreign Affairs and Armed Services Committees, Mr. Truman added.

Badman Cook Changes Mind; Pleads Innocent To Murders

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 25—(P)—A bitter, confessed slayer of six persons today pleaded innocent to kidnap and murder, then branded the world as his enemy.

William E. Cook Jr., 23, charged with wiping out the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Ill., will be tried here March 12.

When arraigned, Cook silently watched as his two court-appointed attorneys pleaded with U. S. District Judge Stephen S. Chandler to convince the Missouri convict they were representing him and not the U. S. government.

Lawyers Given No Cooperation
Cook has refused to cooperate with attorneys Gomer Smith Sr. and John Connolly Jr.

Smith told the court "this man has already had an ex parte trial. The district attorney has announced the date of the indictment, the outcome of the arraignment and the public at large has decided everything else but the date he is to be executed. I would appreciate it if your honor would explain to this man

Alles Batter Reds By Land, Sea, Air

Patrols Range Far To North Before Encountering Enemy

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO, Friday, Jan. 26—(P)—Allied hunter-killer patrols with fixed bayonets and tanks advanced today within 19 miles of Seoul despite increasing enemy pressure.

They boldly hunted for the apparently pulled-back Chinese Communist army. At last reports, they were within two miles of Suwon which is 17 miles below the Red-held South Korean capital.

By land, sea and air, allied forces were stepping up the pressure on Red forces south of the 38th parallel throughout Korea.

Thursday the U. S. heavy cruiser St. Paul and two Canadian destroyers, the Cayuga and Nootka, shelled Seoul's port of Incheon and silenced a Communist battery which fired on them from Wolmi Island. Wolmi is just off Incheon.

In the air, allied planes smashed at two enemy highway convoys, totaling 250 vehicles, north of Seoul before dawn today.

The pilots claimed they destroyed 22 and damaged 10.

A U. S. Eighth army briefing officer said that U. N. patrols stabbing north around Suwon at one point drove off an enemy force with bayonets.

At another point, allied tanks fought Reds dug in on a hill four miles southwest of Suwon. The tanks forced the enemy to withdraw.

Signals But No Attack

One allied unit heard cymbals, whistles and bugles—in the past the signal for a Communist attack. But the enemy force did not attack.

Southwest of Suwon, Reds dressed in civilian clothing fired on north-bound vehicles of the allied patrols.

Another U. N. column was in contact with an enemy group northeast of Osan, which is nine miles south of Suwon.

There was little activity reported on the central and eastern fronts. In those areas, armored U. N. elements have ranged to within 33 miles of the 38th parallel dividing North and South Korea. They found only small enemy forces.

Thursday U. N. troops re-entered Hoengsong, 10 miles north of Wonju in the central sector, then pulled back.

3 Reasons For Red Pullback

Some U. S. intelligence officers speculated that the Reds have withdrawn for one of three reasons:

To await warmer weather; to supply and re-group for a new offensive; or to await a political settlement of the Korean war by the United Nations.

The St. Paul and two Canadian destroyers shelled dock and harbor facilities at Incheon—scene of last September's allied amphibious operation which broke the back of the North Korean army. The allies quit Incheon the night of Jan. 4-5 during a withdrawal under pressure of Chinese Red hordes.

A Navy spokesman said Communist shore guns opened fire on the St. Paul but were quickly knocked out by guns of the cruiser and the destroyers. An allied minesweeper blasted mines in the port area.

General MacArthur, the United Nations commander, said in a pre-birthday interview that the Chinese Reds in Korea now were hindered by extended supply lines.

"We're going to give the Chinese a bloody nose somewhere in the south," MacArthur declared.

Dance So More Might Walk

March Of Dimes
Benefit On Night
Of February 3

Saturday night, February 3, 1951. That's the date—don't forget it. That's when all Pettis county will dance so that more victims of polio can walk.

The "March of Dimes" benefit dance is sponsored this year by the Sedalia Federation of Labor and the Sedalia Federated Shop Crafts. These two organizations are taking complete charge of the music, which, incidentally, will be furnished by Lee Brandt's orchestra. They are making arrangements for the use of Convention Hall. They are paying for every item of expense connected with the dance. They are doing this so that every penny of every dollar collected can go to aid in the fight against polio.

Committee Named

William Donath, president of the Sedalia Federated Shop Crafts and R. C. McVey, president of the Sedalia Federation of Labor have appointed an arrangements committee composed of Norbert Brosch, electrical workers, and Harry Moore, carpenters. The Publicity committee is William Dunlap, boilermakers, and James Cornwall, radio engineers. Emmet Sullivan is in charge of the tickets, which were donated by the Sedalia Typographical Union.

Not only the admission price of $1.00 per couple goes to the March of Dimes, but the proceeds from the hat check concession go to swell the amount collected, as well. This concession will be handled by the members of Nu Phi Mu sorority, just as it was last year.

Every member of the Federation of Labor and the Federated Shop Crafts, as well as the Missouri Pacific Women's club, has tickets for sale and they will be available at the door if not secured in advance.

Last year this activity produced $912, from the sale of tickets and $50 from the hat check concession. Mr. Donath and Mr. McVey have set the goal for this year well above last year's totals. They pointed out that the success of the dance depends upon and credit awaits the individual members of the organizations who work and sell the tickets.

The place is Convention Hall on Saturday night, February 3rd. Let's make a "Dance of Dollars" out of the "March of Dimes."

Resolution Voted In Called Session Saturday Evening

Information on reactivating the Sedalia Air Force Base, south of Knob Noster which was received here Friday, resulted in an official welcome being extended to the United States Air Forces through a resolution passed by the City Council at a special meeting held Saturday night at the City Hall. Sedalia is determined to indicate to the government its desire to see the base reopened to establish a medium bombardment group consisting of 4,500 men.

After meetings at the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce with the Aviation Committee which is headed by E. W. Thompson, director in charge, and members of the executive committee of the C. of C., Mayor Studer Saturday afternoon issued the call for the special session of the Council. Six of the eight council members were able to be present.

At the opening of the meeting Mayor Studer stated: "I have called this special council meeting in order that we may adopt and pass a resolution pledging the support of the City of Sedalia to the Department of Defense in connection with the proposal to locate in the Sedalia area a medium bomber group of the United States Air Force. It is my opinion that this step is necessary in order that we may further show the proper authorities in Washington, D. C., our support and 100-per cent co-operation in this endeavor."

The game was the second for the Dynamos in the playoffs to determine the champion of the Missouri Pacific system. They dropped their first contest to the Little Rock MoPac team by a 37-34 score.

The water system is in excellent condition having been kept in operation the past years by the fire department which has been taking care of field in maintenance and used for fire protection. There have been from eight to fifteen employees on the field ever since it was vacated by the Air Force.

The sanitation system is in good repair and on a twenty-four hour notice can be put into full operation.

Mrs. Twyman In Hospital

Mrs. Elmer Twyman, 232 South Missouri avenue, is a patient in the Bothwell hospital for medical treatment. Mrs. Twyman was admitted to the hospital Wednesday.

The four runways which are 7,200 feet in length, with interlocking taxiways and parking aprons are in excellent conditions. Only minor repairs are said to be necessary to put them into first class condition.

The Sedalia Army Airfield was completed in October 1942 at a cost to the government of $10,509,000 and was used as a Troop Carrier training base as well as a base for training glider pilots.

It was declared surplus in 1947 and transferred to the War Assets Administration which disposed of some of the properties. In 1948 the sale of personal and real estate properties was supervised by the WAA. The following January the base was transferred from the WAA to the Department of Air on orders from the then Secretary of Air Stuart Symington.

A Standby Since 1949

Since January of 1949 the base has been standby under the Air Force who maintained the fire department for protection of the property.

Air Force officers who have inspected the local base from time to time have always praised the installation as to runways, location and weather conditions.

C. Hennings, Jr., released the information on reactivation shortly before noon Friday and his message was the first to be received in Sedalia by the Democrat-Capital. As soon as the information was relayed to E. W. Thompson, director in charge of aviation for the Chamber of Commerce, he called a meeting of his committee, and a meeting of the executive committee of the C. of C., was called by President A. W. Haller and the two groups conferred on the message.

The committees checked information desired in the message and forwarded their information on to Thomas K. Finletter, secretary of the Air Force, to Senator Hennings, U. S. Senator James P. Kem, Congressmen Dewey Short, Morgan Moulder, Phil Welch and Clare McGee, and O. K. Armstrong.

Senator Hennings in a telephone message, with a Sedalia friend, stated since taking office, one of his first projects was to seek information from agency officials as to the possibility of reactivating the Sedalia Air Base.

Housing, Schools Checked

It was estimated in the messages sent to Washington 953 housing units had been built in this area since 1946 and at present about 65 new housing units are under construction. Further they informed the government, that with the coming spring Sedalia will have completed an extensive program on the schools of the city with $800,000 being spent for additional buildings, expansion of some schools and extensive repairs being made to others, which will take care of the desires of educational facilities.

Stressing on transportation it has been pointed out that the Des Moines, Springfield and Southern Stage lines owned by A. B. Fletcher have a franchise to operate buses between Sedalia and the base on regular schedules which would not only take care of civilian employees but military as well. Mr. Fletcher only recently informed the Chamber of Commerce he was well equipped to put buses into operation in a matter of a few hours.

Friday evening as soon as the newspapers reached Sedalia homes the phones at the Chamber of Commerce began to ring and informing the C. of C. of various vacant apartments, some which have been closed for several months, which owners said they would be willing to rent if the base should be opened.

A Business Stimulant

A. W. Haller, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said he anticipated the needs of the government could and would be fulfilled through the cooperation of Warrensburg, Knob Noster, Clinton, Windsor, LaMonte with Sedalia. "The word of reactivation of the base is a real stimulant to business in Central Missouri," Haller said.

The SAAF, to have been vacant for so long is in exceptionally good condition. There still remains a large number of barracks which when not too extensive repairs are made can be put to immediate use. The several large wooden hangers will need some repairs, but can be used as soon as stored grains are removed.

The water system is in excellent condition having been kept in operation the past years by the fire department which has been taking care of field in maintenance and used for fire protection. There have been from eight to fifteen employees on the field ever since it was vacated by the Air Force.

The sanitation system is in good repair and on a twenty-four hour notice can be put into full operation.

Power Lines Still Intact

As to the power needs the electric lines which fed the base during World War II are still intact, and the Missouri Public Service Co., only recently built another power line which if needed can also be used to supply power to the base.

The streets on the base which are of blacktop are in fairly good repair.

The four runways which are 7,200 feet in length, with interlocking taxiways and parking aprons are in excellent conditions. Only minor repairs are said to be necessary to put them into first class condition.

Prepare to Press Peace Formula

Believed One by Asian Countries Doomed to Fail

By Max Harrelson

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Twelve Asian and Arab countries today prepared to press their new Korean peace formula, apparently with Peiping's blessing, but Western diplomats said the move was doomed.

The plan calls for an immediate seven-power conference on Western problems, without mentioning a cease-fire in Korea.

Authoritative sources said the Asian-Arab bloc got a go-ahead signal from Peiping before it submitted the resolution to the U. N. political committee yesterday.

These sources said this word came from the Indian ambassador in Peiping who expressed the belief in a message to India's Sir Benegal N. Rau that such a proposal would be welcomed by the Chinese Communists.

The Asian-Arab plan, in fact, conforms closely to the demands that Peiping has made from the beginning—that a conference on Far Eastern problems be called without waiting for a cease-fire in Korea. This has been bitterly opposed by the United States and many other countries.

The new Peiping message was received by Rau yesterday afternoon, but Indian sources insisted that it contained only the personal impressions of the Indian ambassador and therefore would not be made public.

The Indians did say, however, that the message indicated the Chinese Communists would be willing to hold the proposed conference outside China, perhaps in New Delhi. They previously had demanded that any such meeting be held in China.

Rau was scheduled to address the U. N. political committee this afternoon in support of the proposal put forward yesterday by the 12-nation group.

Hal Boyle Reports From Korea

By Hal Boyle

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN KOREA — (AP) — The word "Gook" has just about disappeared from the American soldier's vocabulary here.

And that is a good thing. It is an outward sign of an inward change toward the people for whose right to democracy he was sent here to fight.

When the Americans first arrived in force last July, they hardly regarded the Koreans as ordinary people—so much as they did inhabitants of a country almost as strange and unknown to them as Mars.

They saw Korea only as an old and tired backward land, smelling of the honey-wagon and filthy with ancient disease. And they thought of the Koreans chiefly as a race of dog eating tribesmen given to child marriage and thievery and totally incapable of ever knowing the meaning of democracy.

And in their arrogance they began calling all Koreans—north and south—"Gooks." It was a term of lumped contempt and it was uttered in contempt. It might have jolted the superiority of some of them to learn that the Koreans also had a word for "American" in their language. It was "Megook." But there was no contempt in it. It meant only "foreigner."

If it has done nothing else, the extended police action in Korea has helped bridge the gap between the Gooks and the Megooks—between 150,000 American troops and nearly 30,000,000 Koreans. They have been through much together and they understand each other better now.

Understanding Need

This result may hardly be worth a war, but it is only one of many results. And it certainly is important in a narrowing world that Americans realize the vital need of understanding the peoples whose destiny will be linked with theirs.

After seven months of comradeship in a campaign marked by a long retreat and a frustrating victory followed by fresh withdrawals, the average American soldier no longer feels like calling a Korean a "Gook."

"Many of our men have come to know and like individual Koreans," said one field officer. "And through them they have come to understand and have sympathy for the Korean people as a whole."

A soldier in the line said: "It was the civilian refugees—the courage they showed in leaving their homes to march back with us—that made me respect them. Hell, I hope my folks at home never have to show that kind of guts."

The kindling interest of the troops in the plight of the Korean people has also been shown in group contributions to their welfare and an increase number of acts of personal kindness. And it goes far deeper than gifts of chewing gum and candy to ragged children on the streets.

With kindness goes tolerance. More and more American troops have come to see beneath the surface, filth and cruelty here a yearning for something better in a people that has had to be tough and stubborn—and on occasion heartless—merely to endure.

Bell Company Asks Rate Hike Of 13 Million

Would Increase Home Rate Here To $4.50 a Month

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., asked for a third-round $13,000,000 annual rate increase on its Missouri operations today.

The application for the increase was filed with the Missouri Public Service commission, the regulatory body that has granted the utility two postwar increases totalling about $7,000,000 annually.

But H. R. Towles, general manager of the company's Missouri operation, said revenues were lagging far behind cost increases. He said in the same period that the company had received $7,000,000 rate hikes the cost of labor alone had risen $14,000,000 a year.

Towles said the increased rates would bring the company a little over a million dollars additional each month and the annual total would approximate $12,500,000 if it is granted in full by the commission.

The new rates would apply to customers of Southeast Missouri Telephone. Bell owned that utility "lock, stock and barrel" before, but actually took it over the first of this year.

Southeast Missouri customers would be added to established groupings of exchanges which Bell got approved in earlier commission rate cases.

But to simplify operation, Bell's old groups two and three would be combined under the new rate hike.

Here's what it would mean to Missouri customers in various towns:

Group one, the smallest exchanges—business phone rates would be $5 a month and one-party home phones would be $3.50. Group two—business $6 and one-party residence $3.75.

Group three, such towns as Paris, Mo.—business $7 and one-party residence $4.

Group four, such towns as Fulton—business $8 and home $4.25.

Group five, such towns as Moberly, Hannibal, Cape Girardeau, Sedalia—business $9 and home $4.50.

Group six, such cities as Joplin and Overland—business $10 and home $4.75.

Group seven, Independence and Kirkswood—business $10.50 and home $5.

Group eight, St. Joseph and Springfield—business $11.25 and home $5.25.

One-party business phone rates in Kansas City would be $15 and one-party residence phones $6.25.

One-party business telephone rates in St. Louis would be $18.50 and one-party residence phones $7.

Towles said about half the increase probably would go to pay expected higher federal taxes.

Thomas M. Mullaly, company manager of the Bell company in Sedalia gave the Democrat-Capital the following on the increase sought:

"In the face of declining earnings, the Southwestern Bell Telephone company today filed new rates with the Missouri Public Service Commission. The increase would apply throughout the company's Missouri operations, according to H. R. Towles, Missouri's general manager of the company, affecting basic rates for exchange service for long distance calls within the state, and for special and miscellaneous services."

"It has been clear for some time that our earnings in 1951 would be entirely inadequate to meet our service obligations," Towles said, "and that we would have to request new rates to meet the steadily increasing cost of Telephone service."

For residence service, the increases range from less than 2 cents a day for a four-party telephone in the smallest town served by the company, to 5 cents a day for individual-line service in the state's largest city. The cents-per-day increase for business telephones ranges from 3 1/2 to 9.

The proposed changes here are: Four-party residence, up less than 2 cents a day to the monthly rate of $3.00; two-party residence, up 2 1/2 cents a day to $3.50 a month; individual-line residence up four cents a day to $4.50 a month. City business rates would increase 7 1/2 cents a day up to $9.00 a month. Rural rates would go up 2 1/2 cents a day to $3.25 a month for residence service, and up 3 1/2 cents a day to $5.25 a month for rural business telephones.

Help 4 Out Of 5

Four out of five people who come down with infantile paralysis require help in whole or in part from the March of Dimes.

During the last three years at least $58,000,000 in March of Dimes funds was expended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for patient care and epidemic aid throughout the nation. The 1950 epidemic bill for such service came to some $25,000,000, of which $5,000,000 remains as a debt to be paid in 1951.

Scott Webber, Pettis county March of Dimes director, said the local unit had helped pay for care and treatment of 16 polio patients during 1950.

March of Dimes researchers are working toward a prevention or cure of polio; meanwhile, other March of Dimes money must go to the rescue of those families who face the tragic personal and financial crisis of infantile paralysis. The resulting care has largely eliminated deformities once resulting from inadequate treatment.
